III. General information on data processing

1. Definitions

'personal data' means any information relating to an identified or identifiable natural person (hereinafter referred to as 'data subject'); an identifiable natural person is one who can be identified, directly or indirectly, in particular by reference to an identifier such as a name, an identification number, location data, an online identifier (e.g. cookie) or to one or more factors specific to the physical, physiological, genetic, mental, economic, cultural or social identity of that natural person.

'Processing' is any operation or set of operations which is performed on personal data or on sets of personal data, whether or not by automated means. The definition is far-reaching and encompasses almost all data handling.

'Pseudonymisation' refers to the processing of personal data in such a manner that the personal data can no longer be attributed to a specific data subject without the use of additional information, provided that such additional information is kept separately and is subject to technical and organisational measures to ensure that the personal data is not attributed to an identified or identifiable natural person.

‘Profiling’ is any form of automated processing of personal data consisting of the use of personal data to evaluate certain personal aspects relating to a natural person, in particular to analyse or predict aspects concerning that natural person’s performance at work, economic situation, health, personal preferences, interests, reliability, behaviour, location or movements.

‘Controller’ means the natural or legal person, public authority, agency or other body which, alone or jointly with others, determines the purposes and means of the processing of personal data.

‘Processor’ means a natural or legal person, public authority, agency or other body which processes personal data on behalf of the controller.

2. Scope of the processing of personal data

As a general rule, we only process the personal data of our users to the extent necessary to provide a fully functioning service and to deliver our content and services.

3. Legal basis for the processing of personal data

The respective legal basis for the respective processing is presented and explained in the following. The legal basis is typically founded

- on a (purchase) contract or within the framework of contract initiation (e.g. when purchasing goods, the Europa-Park Clubcard or vouchers)
- on our company’s legitimate interest, for instance, when collecting traffic data when you use our online shop
- on your consent/permission (e.g. for newsletter distribution)

4. Data erasure and retention period

In general, your personal data which we have stored shall be deleted as soon as it is no longer required for the intended purpose and the erasure does not conflict with any statutory retention requirements. Insofar as the data is not erased because it is required for other and legally admissible purposes, its processing shall be restricted. This means that the data will be blocked and not used for any other purposes. This applies, for instance, to data which must be kept for commercial or tax reasons.

According to legal requirements in Germany, books, records, management reports, accounting receipts, trading books, documents relevant for taxation, etc. shall be retained for a period of 10 years in accordance with Sections 147 (1) Tax Code (AO), 257 (1) (1) and (4), Para. 4 German Commercial Code (HGB) and in the case of commercial letters for a period of six years in accordance with Section 257 (1) (2) and (3), Para. 4 HGB. This includes, for example, documents and data required for processing your purchase of goods or the Europa-Park Clubcard in the online shop.

5. Security

Our services are encrypted with SSL or TLS protocols for reasons of security as well as to protect the transmission of personal data and other confidential content (e.g. orders or enquiries sent to us). An encrypted connection can be recognised by the string 'https: //' and the padlock symbol in your browser line.

IV. Providing the app and creating log files

1. Description and scope of data processing

Each time our offer is accessed, our system automatically collects data and information from the system of the requesting device. This data is also referred to as 'traffic data'.

The following data is collected:

- Information about browser type and version used
- The user's operating system
- The user's device
- Date and time of access
- Service from which the user's system accesses our service
- Services accessed by the user's system from our service

It is necessary for the system to store the IP address temporarily so that the service can be displayed on the user's computer. To this end, the user's IP address is stored for the duration of the session. Traffic data is collected in order to make technical improvements to our offer.

This data is also stored in our system's log files. The user's IP addresses or other data that enables said data to be linked to a specific user is not included here. This data is not stored together with other personal data of the user.

2. Legal basis for data processing

Art. 6 (1) f) GDPR provides the legal basis for the temporary storage of data. Our legitimate interest is to deliver our web content to you.

3. Retention period

We automatically delete your traffic data once your visit to our website is terminated.

4. Objection and deletion options

The collection of data to enable provision of the service and the storage of data in log files is essential for the service to function properly. You have the option to object to this in accordance with Art. 21 GDPR, insofar that you assert the special circumstances that prevent the processing of your personal data. The use of personal data is restricted to the necessary minimum, just as the period of retention is limited to your website visit.

V. Use of cookies and similar technologies

1. Description, purpose and scope of data processing

For example, our service uses cookies in the webview. Cookies are text files that are stored on the Internet browser used on the user's computer system.

The primary purpose of a cookie is to store data on a user (or the device on which the cookie is stored) during or after their visit to a website. We use cookies to make our services more user-friendly. The purpose of using technically essential cookies is to make it easier for users to navigate the services. Analysis cookies are used for the purpose of improving the quality of our services and its content. The analysis cookies show us how the website is used, enabling us to continue to optimise our offers.

Cookies can be used for various tasks:

Temporary cookies: Temporary cookies (also referred to as 'session cookies' or 'transient cookies') are deleted when the user leaves the website and closes their browser. A cookie of this type might be used, for instance, to store the content of a shopping cart in an online shop or the user's login status, their language settings, etc.

Permanent cookies: 'Permanent' or 'persistent' cookies remain stored on the device even after the user has closed their browser. To give an example, this makes it possible for the user's login status to be stored even if there are a number of days between the user's visits to this site. Such cookies can also be used to store data on user interests for the purposes of reach analysis and marketing activities.

'Third-party cookies' are cookies from providers other than the controller who operates the website.

When using the app, we use similar technologies to collect and process data.

Technical methods are used to pseudonymise the user data collected. As a result, the data can no longer be linked to the user accessing the website. The data is not stored together with other personal data of the users.

Upon accessing our websites, a cookie consent (info banner featuring a consent function) informs users about the use of the cookies employed by us. The cookie consent allows you to confirm the use of the legally permitted cookies (transient and permanent cookies that are necessary for ensuring website functionality) and the use of advertising or third-party cookies (e.g. permanent marketing cookies and third-party providers such as Google). Part of our website, especially subpages of europapark.de, are connected with an overarching cookie consent. This is the case when no new banner is shown after you opened a new page.

Upon switching to other websites, you may have to decide once again in a cookie consent if cookies can be used. The settings are also saved as cookies. Cookies will only be used once you have made your decision in the cookie consent. The cookie consent can be accessed at all times in the 'Cookie settings' section in order to change your settings and revoke your consent to the use of functional cookies, analysis cookies and cookies for marketing purposes. Further explanations about cookies can be found in the cookie settings under the cookie list and in our privacy policy. When opening the app for the first time, users will be informed via a banner with consent function. You can also manage the data processing in the app under 'Data protection settings' or via the settings of your device.

We have commissioned OneTrust, a service of OneTrust Technology Limited, 82 St John St, Farringdon, London EC1M 4JN, United Kingdom (UK), and the Google Tag Manager, a service of Google Ireland Limited, Google Building Gordon House, Barrow St, Dublin 4, Ireland, to manage cookies.

2. Legal basis for data processing

Art. 6 (1) f) GDPR provides the legal basis for processing personal data using temporary or partially permanent cookies that are strictly necessary. Our legitimate interest lies in being able to provide you with a fully functioning service and an appropriate level of operating convenience.

Art. 6 (1) a) GDPR provides the legal basis for processing personal data using cookies that are not strictly necessary.

You will be asked to give your consent when you first open a website or app. Your consent status can be managed in the 'Cookie Settings' in the footer of the page, or in the data protection settings within the app. Additional settings can be managed via the menu of your device.

3. Retention period, right of revocation and right to object

Cookies are stored on the user's device and transmitted by it to our website. As a user, you therefore have full control over the use of cookies. You can disable or restrict the transmission of cookies by adjusting the settings in your Internet browser accordingly. Cookies that have already been stored can be deleted at any time. This can be done automatically. If cookies are disabled for our services, not all functions of the service may be available to you to their full extent.

5. Web analysis by Google Analytics with anonymisation function

We use Google Analytics, a web analysis service provided by Google Inc., 1600 Amphitheatre Parkway, Mountain View, CA 94043, USA, hereinafter referred to as 'Google', on our website. Google Analytics uses so-called cookies; these are text files that are stored on your computer and enable an analysis of how you use the website.

The information collected by the cookies, for example, the time, place and frequency of your website visits, including your IP address, is transmitted to a Google server in the USA and stored there.

On our website, we use Google Analytics with the suffix '_gat._anonymizeIp'. In this case, your IP address will be truncated by Google within the Member States of the European Union or in other countries that are party to the Agreement on the European Economic Area and thereby anonymised.

Google will use this information to evaluate how you use our website, to compile reports on website activities for us, and to provide further services connected with the use of the website and the Internet. Google will also pass this information on to third parties if necessary, insofar as this is legally stipulated or insofar as third parties process this data on behalf of Google.

Google claims that it will not link your IP address with other Google data under any circumstances. You can prevent the installation of cookies by adjusting your browser settings accordingly; in this case, however, we must point out that not all functions of this website may be available to you to their full extent.

Google also offers a deactivation add-on for the most common browsers, which gives you more control over what data is collected by Google on the websites visited by you. The add-on informs Google Analytics JavaScript (ga.js) that no information about the website visit should be sent to Google Analytics. However, the Google Analytics deactivation add-on for browsers does not prevent information from being transmitted to us or to any other web analysis services used by us. You can find further information on the installation of the browser add-on at this link.

6. Google Ads

We also use Google Analytics to analyse data from Double-Click cookies and AdWords for statistical purposes. If you do not wish this to take place, you can disable it through the Ads Preferences Manager (google.com/settings/ads/onweb/?hl=de).

7. Web analysis by YouTube

This website contains at least one plug-in from YouTube, a company owned by Google Inc., based in San Bruno, California, USA. As soon as you visit any pages of our website that contain a YouTube plug-in, a connection is established to the YouTube servers. The YouTube server is informed of what specific page of our website you visited. Should you be logged in to your YouTube account at the same time, this would enable YouTube to establish a direct link between your personal profile and your surfing habits. You can prevent this link from being established by logging out of your account beforehand. Further information on the collection and use of your data by YouTube is available in YouTube's Privacy Policy at www.youtube.com.

8. Vimeo

This website uses videos. Videos are a great way of easily conveying content in a comprehensible manner. Since it is not powerful enough to just host videos locally, this website uses external video providers. By integrating videos, it is – technically possible – to access the server of the provider Vimeo. We hereby refer you to the provider's privacy policy for information on how the data from your browser is used in this regard. Vimeo's Privacy Policy can be found here: vimeo.com/privacy

Vimeo claims to guarantee an appropriate level of data protection.

9. Web analysis by Facebook Pixel

This website uses the 'Custom Audiences' remarketing function of Facebook Inc. ('Facebook'). The purpose of this function is to display interest-related ads ('Facebook ads') to visitors to this website when logged on to the social network Facebook. To this end, the Facebook remarketing tag has been implemented on this website. This tag makes it possible to establish a direct connection to the Facebook servers when the website is accessed. The information that you have visited this website is sent to the Facebook server, and Facebook links this information to your personal Facebook user account. You can find more information on the collection and use of data by Facebook, your rights with regard to the above and settings to protect your privacy can be found in Facebook's Data Policy: <https://www.facebook.com/about/privacy/>. Alternatively, you may disable the 'Custom Audiences' remarketing function at <https://www.facebook.com/settings/?tab=ads#>. You need to be logged into Facebook to do so.

10. Web analysis by Hotjar

To improve the user experience on our website, we use the Hotjar software (<http://www.hotjar.com>, 3 Lyons Range, 20 Bisazza Street, Sliema SLM 1640, Malta, Europe). Hotjar makes it possible to record and evaluate user behaviour (mouse movements, clicks, scrolling, etc.). To this end, Hotjar sets cookies on the user's end device, enabling it to store user data (e.g. browser information, operating system, time spent on the website, etc.) in anonymised form. You can prevent your data from being processed by Hotjar by disabling cookies in your web browser settings and deleting cookies that are already enabled. You can find out more about data processing by Hotjar here: <https://www.hotjar.com/privacy>.

If you do not wish website analysis to be carried out by Hotjar, you can opt out from this on all websites that use Hotjar by setting a DoNotTrack header in your browser. You can find information about this on the following website: <https://www.hotjar.com/opt-out>.

11. Web analysis by Local Measure

We also use the social media aggregation tool <https://www.localmeasure.com> on our website. This tool enables us to filter, curate and compile galleries of content that is publicly available on Facebook, Twitter and Instagram and to reproduce such content on our websites. If you do not want your posts to be used in this manner, please send an email objecting to such use to datenschutz@europapark.de.

Art. 6 (1) f) GDPR provides the legal basis for processing the personal data of users.

Processing the users' personal data enables us to analyse the surfing habits of our users. Evaluating the data obtained in this way enables us to compile information on how the individual elements of our website are used. This helps us to optimise our website and to continually make it more user-friendly. These purposes also constitute our legitimate interests in data processing pursuant to Art. 6 (1) f) GDPR. Anonymising the IP address ensures that the users' interest in the protection of their personal data is adequately taken into account.

The data is deleted as soon as it is no longer required for record-keeping purposes. If possible, this is restricted to 38 months in the tools used.

12. Web analysis by Google Fonts

A JavaScript code is loaded on our website. If you have activated JavaScript in your browser and have not installed a JavaScript blocker, your browser will transmit your personal data where applicable.
